

Courtney Scott, HHW Program Manager, Zero Waste Sonoma

Courtney Scott has worked in household hazardous waste for 14 years. She began her career with the San Rafael Fire Department coordinating the Marin HHW Facility and has been the HHW Program Manager for Zero Waste Sonoma since 2016 managing the HHW, e-waste, and solar panel programs. She loves being part of a small team that is passionate about the environment.

Courtney was recently selected by the North Bay Business Journal for the “Forty Under 40” list in 2024, she’s working to build a second HHW facility in Sonoma County, and is the co-sponsor of SB 1066, the Marine Flare Producer Responsibility Act.
